

NEW YORK | interest

february 10, 2009

new york | valentine's day picks.

roses are red, violets are blue. this may be the case for some, but for others this will just not do. need some help? take a cue from this valentine's day gift guide:

reason to wine.

forget the cliché bubbly. impress your man with a bottle of bartolo mascarello 2004 barolo ($109.95) from the mario batali-owned italian wine merchants. the experts there call it an outstanding and final vintage from this legendary producer who passed away in 2004. aromatics of roses and earthiness surface and the palate is bright and clean. it's a wine that's intended to touch the heart and mind. take a sip and find out for yourself. available at italian wine merchants. 108 east 16th street. near union square. 212.473.2323.

visit the site